Listening

Karen: Good afternoon. Welcome to our weekly radio programme Unusual holidays. Today, we are talking to Jeremy. Jeremy climbed the Old Man of Stoer – a famous rock. He is here to tell us about it. Good afternoon, Jeremy.

Jeremy: Good afternoon, Karen.

Karen: Tell me, Jeremy. Did you enjoy climbing such a dangerous rock?

Jeremy: To be honest, no. I was really scared. I had no experience. I felt I was climbing a wall – only much higher and with the sea below me.

Karen: OK. Let's start from the beginning. Where is the rock?

Jeremy: In Scotland. The Old Man of Stoer is a very famous rock. It's 65 metres tall and it's in the middle of the sea.

Karen: 65 metres! That's tall! Did you go alone?

Jeremy: No, I had a guide, Paul. He's an expert climber and he's as tough and strong as Superman. I was tied to Paul with a rope and he went first.

Karen: I see. He was in front of you and could >>> help you. Tell us, how was the climb?

Jeremy: Surprisingly, the first part of the climb was very easy because there were many places to put my feet.

Karen: When did it get difficult?

Jeremy: Near the top. There wasn't anywhere to put my feet and at one point I fell.

Karen: Did you fall all the way to the sea?

Jeremy: No. Paul saved me. He held onto the rope and pulled me up. So, in the end, I made it!

Karen: Have you got any recommendations for new rock climbers?

Jeremy: First, learn to climb on indoor walls. Do a few easier climbs before you try the hard climbs.

Karen: Thank you, Jeremy.

Listening

- Guide: Welcome to the island of Greenland.
Today, we are going to visit Eric the Red's farm. He came to Greenland in the year 982.
- Tourist: Why did people call him Eric the Red?
Guide: Because he had red hair.
- Tourist: Oh, that makes sense. I thought that there was ice everywhere in Greenland. It's so green here in the south. Is that why it's called Greenland?
Guide: Well, some experts say that in the tenth century it was warmer and very green here. There weren't very many people living in Greenland then. Eric was lonely and he wanted to bring more people to the island. He told people in Iceland that the island was called Greenland to attract more people.
- Tourist: Did it work?
Guide: Yes, many people from Iceland came here and they stayed. Later, the weather changed and ice and snow covered all of Greenland. Now the weather is changing again because of global warming. The summer is warmer, there's less ice and it's green again.
- Tourist: How did people survive when there was ice everywhere?
Guide: Well, they caught seals, sea birds and polar bears. Seals and polar bears have got a lot of fat and people used this fat for heat and light. They also used polar bear fur to make warm blankets and coats.
- Tourist: Do people still kill these animals?
Guide: Today, there are laws to protect the polar bears. Maybe you will be lucky and we'll see one today. Now, let's leave the boat here and walk to Eric the Red's farm.

Marion: Hi, Shannon.
 Shannon: Oh, hi, Marion. What's new?
 Marion: My brother has got a birthday next week and I want to get him something special. Have you got any ideas?
 Shannon: Well, what does he like?
 Marion: He's very interested in astronomy. He's got a telescope and he loves looking at the stars with it.
 Shannon: Well, I read on the Internet that you can buy a star.
 Marion: Buy a star?!

Shannon: Well, you can't exactly buy a star. But you can name a star after someone.
 Marion: That sounds interesting. How do you name a star?
 Shannon: You have to go on the Internet and find a company that names stars. The company will choose a star for you. It will be a star that has got a number but not a real name. Did you know that there are more than 18 million stars?
 Marion: No, I didn't.
 Shannon: What do you think of my idea?
 Marion: I'm not sure my brother will like it.
 Shannon: Why not? Madonna has got a star named after her.
 Marion: Really? But does the star belong to her?
 Shannon: No, not really. But that's not important. Your brother will be so happy with his unusual present. And he'll have a certificate to put on his wall. Imagine having a star in your name!
 Marion: Mmm ... I'll have to think about that.

Assistant: Good morning. Thompson's Hot Air Balloons. Can I help you?

Richard: Well, yes. I hope so. I have wanted to fly in a hot air balloon since I was a small child but I have always been afraid. Can I ask you some questions?

Assistant: Sure. What do you want to know?

Richard: How high does the balloon fly?

Assistant: Our balloons usually fly up to 120 metres. But some air balloons have flown 21,000 metres.

Richard: Wow! 21,000 metres. That's high! But your balloons don't fly that high. Are the rides safe?

Assistant: Yes, our rides are safe. Our pilots were specially trained to fly hot air balloons and have got safety equipment with them.

Richard: Oh. That's good. How long will I be in the air?

Assistant: Most balloon flights last about an hour. We don't usually offer flights for less than an hour.

Richard: Is there any place to sit in the basket?

Assistant: No, there isn't. We haven't got any chairs in the basket so you must stand next to the other passengers.

Richard: Oh, I won't be alone. How many people does the hot air balloon carry?

Assistant: Our smallest balloon takes between four to six people. The biggest balloons take 18 people.

Richard: 18, that is a lot. Where do the balloons go? I want to fly over my house.

Assistant: I'm sorry but the wind decides where we will fly.

Richard: Oh, I see. And how much does a flight cost?

Assistant: Our cheapest flights cost 150 euros.

Richard: Wow! That's a lot of money. I guess I'll continue to dream about flying.

with Susan from Mothers Against Drunk Driving. Welcome Susan.

Susan: Thank you for inviting me.

Joe: I understand that your organisation is helping to change laws in the USA about drunk drivers. Tell us about it.

Susan: Well, Joe, I'm very proud to say that most state governments are helping us in our fight against drunk driving.

Joe: Really? That's great. What are they doing?

Susan: Today, in most states, if a person is caught driving drunk, he will have to put an interlock device in his car.

Joe: An interlock device? What's that?

Susan: An interlock device checks a person's breath. If a driver has got alcohol in his body, the car won't start.

Joe: That's amazing! People won't drive drunk if they've got interlock devices in their cars.

Susan: That's right. We want to have these devices put in all cars. If everyone had an interlock device, there wouldn't be many car accidents.

Joe: That's a great idea. Good luck to you and to Mothers Against Drunk Driving. And thank you for joining us today, Susan. Imagine, if people don't drink and drive, we will all feel much safer on the roads.

Listening

- Interviewer: Good afternoon to all our listeners. Today, we've got David Hunter here with us. David is a rescue worker. Hi, David. Tell me, why did you decide to become a rescue worker?
- David: Well, I like to help people. People often get into dangerous situations.
- Interviewer: What type of situations? Can you give me some examples?
- David: Sometimes there is a hurricane or a snowstorm and people need help. Sometimes, people think they can do things that they can't. For example, they go on hiking trips and get lost or get caught in a flood.
- Interviewer: I see. How do you become a rescue worker?
- David: First, you have to study map reading. Then, you must learn rescue techniques.
- Interviewer: Can you tell us about one of your rescue experiences?
- David: Well, last week I rescued four friends. They got lost in the middle of a flood. They were driving in their car when a big flood came. The water pushed the car off the road. The water was as high as the car, so it was difficult to find them. But we found them and they survived.
- Interviewer: Wow! That's fantastic. What is the hardest part of the job?
- David: I think the hardest thing is that you have to do things very quickly.

Interviewer: Well, you certainly are doing something important. Thank you, David.

Les: Hey Carl. Where are we staying tonight?
 Carl: We're going to sleep right here, in Glamis castle.
 Les: Really? That's great! I've always wanted to stay in a castle.
 Carl: I hope we don't see any ghosts!
 Les: Why? Is the castle haunted?
 Carl: Well, people say there's a ghost of a lady. She wears a white scarf around her neck and she hasn't got any eyes.
 Les: What happened to her eyes?
 Carl: A thief came to the castle. He wanted to kill her but he was convinced to let her live. Her jewellery was stolen and her eyes were cut out, so she couldn't identify him.
 Les: That's terrible! When is her ghost usually seen?
 Carl: At midnight. But don't worry. She only haunts the castle when it's a full moon.
 Les: That's lucky! Where is our room?
 Carl: Follow me. We're sleeping in the tower.
 Les: Oh, there are a lot of stairs. When will we reach the tower?
 Carl: We'll be there soon. Come on! Here we are.
 Les: Oh! This room's really scary! The furniture is so old!

Mum: Bill, your father and I thought it would be fun for the family to go on a cruise this summer.

Bill: But cruises are boring.

Mum: Who told you that?

Bill: My friend Tom. He was bored and he got ill when his family was on a cruise.

Mum: Well, I'm talking about The Freedom of the Seas. It's an enormous ship. I'm sure you won't be bored. I spoke to some of my friends. They were on it last year. They said that there were a lot of fun things to do on the ship. It's got a shopping centre, a spa, a fitness centre, a skating rink, a rock-climbing wall ...

Bill: Wow! Are you telling me that there's a rock-climbing wall on the ship?

Mum: Yes ... and it's four and a half metres high.

Bill: That sounds fun but ... I don't know ... I want to climb mountains. You can't do that on a cruise.

Mum: Yes, you can. One of the cruises that I read about stops at Ocho Rios, in Jamaica. You can climb the famous Dunn's River Falls there. Or you can climb more than 600 metres up Murray Hill. You can also take a mountain bike ride and see the beautiful scenery of Jamaica.

Bill: I can do all that on one cruise?

Mum: Yes ... and a lot more.

Bill: OK. Let's go on the Freedom of the Seas.

Jane: Hi Mark. It's Jane. How are you?
Mark: I'm fine. How are you?
Jane: Great. My parents are taking my brothers and I to Asterix Park in Paris next week. Weren't you there last summer?
Mark: Yes, I was and I had a great time. You'll love it.
Jane: That's good to hear. I wanted to go to Disneyland Paris, but my parents decided to take us to Asterix Park. >>>

Mark: If you like exciting rides, you'll prefer Asterix Park to Disneyland Paris. I've been to both parks. I thought that Asterix Park was more fun.

Jane: Really, why?

Mark: Well, there are 31 rides at Asterix Park. Some of them are more exciting than the rides at Disneyland Paris. Your little brother will like the family rides and you and your older brother will enjoy the roller coasters. You'll want to go on the Tonnerre de Zeus. It's an amazing ride that takes you up 30 metres and rides over a beautiful forest. Then it goes down at a speed of more than 80 kilometres per hour.

Jane: That sounds frightening. I'll try it if my brother goes with me. My parents won't go on any rides because my mother has got a bad back and my father has got heart problems. They like seeing shows. Did you see any shows there?

Mark: Yes, I did. The show which I liked the best was the dolphin show. It was great. After the show, one of the dolphins kissed me on the face. My parents saw some shows that they really enjoyed.

Jane: Well, it sounds like we'll have a great time. Thanks. I'll talk to you when I get back.
